PUBLISH THIS DAY:

I.

Life and Letters of Emory Upton.

Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of Artillery, and Brevet Major-General U. S. Army. By PETER S. MICHIE, Professor U. S. Military Academy. With an introduction by JAMES HARRISON WILSON, late U. S. Army. With Portraits. 12mo, cloth. Price, $2.00.

"The subject of the following memoir was widely known by reputation in the military profession, and the story of his life would, at least to military men, have been a matter of passing interest. The tragic circumstances of his death seemed to demand some explanation in harmony with his established reputation and character. At the earnest solicitation of his nearest relatives, the author, although conscious of his own deficiencies, undertook the task of compiling a brief record of General Upton's life for his family and immediate personal friends."—From Preface.

II.

The Tinted Venus.

A FARCIAL ROMANCE. By F. ANSTEY, author of "Vice Versa," "The Giant's Robe," etc. 12mo, paper. Price, 25 cents. Authorized edition.

"The Tinted Venus," by the author of "Vice Versa," is designated by the author "a farcical romance" rightly enough, for in strange and grotesque invention it equals if it does not outdo, his "Vice Versa."

III.

NOTES IN SEASON.

GUSTAV HINSTORFF, Chicago, will publish, July 1, Max Nordau's new book, "Paradoxe." Of his former book, "Conventionelle Lügen," it is reported that over 100,000 copies have been sold in Europe and in this country.

HARPER & BROS. issue this week Stanley's important work, "Congo, and the Founding of its Free State," already noticed in these columns. It is in two octavo volumes and has over one hundred illustrations and maps. In the Handy Series they publish "The Mahdi," by Prof. J. Darmesteter, and "The World of London," by the Count Paul Vasili.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & CO. will publish on the 30th a new "society" novel, by William H. Rideing, entitled "A Little Upstart;" "Silken Threads," a detective story, by an anonymous writer; "Simply a Love Story," a new novel by Philip Orne; and a new edition of "The Deserted Ship," by George Cupples, the title of which has been changed to "Cupples Howe, Mariner."

C. N. CASPAR, Milwaukee, Wis., announces that the "Directory of the Antiquarian Booksellers and Dealers in Second-hand Books of the United States," the compilation of which was announced some months since, is now complete, and will be published soon in a limited edition to subscribers. The Directory will be printed in large type on heavy writing paper, with ample margins and blank leaves for corrections and additions, and is furnished in neat half-roan binding. The price has been fixed at $5 net.

HUBBARD BROTHERS, of Philadelphia, will publish several supplemental volumes to the Encyclopædia Britannica, which will bring the information down to the completion of the present publication. It will include all omissions of any importance in former volumes of the original publication, as well as biographies of all eminent living persons and of those who have died since the publication of the first volumes, it being the rule with the Britannica's editors to omit all mention of those who are living at the time of the issue of the volume.

L. PRANG & CO. have recently issued an important as well as handsome work on the "Mushrooms of America—Edible and Poisonous," prepared by Julius Palmer, Jr., of Boston. The work comprises four pages of text and twelve plates illustrating in colors and in exact reproduction of nature over thirty varieties of fungi, with directions how to prepare and cook the edible, and how to detect the poisonous kinds. The whole is enclosed in a neat cloth portfolio. For those who wish to use these illustrations in the kitchen they have printed the two kinds on separate charts that may be conveniently hung up on the wall. Should these charts be received with favor the publishers may feel encouraged to furnish a supplement, under Mr. Palmer's supervision, from time to time, until their illustrations shall comprise nearly or quite all of the mushrooms of America.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. will bring out early next week "General Gordon's Journals at Kartoum," printing from early sheets purchased from Messrs. Kegan Paul & Co. These curiously interesting journals form a book of about 500 pages, and will be illustrated by some thirty diagrams and sketches—some of them keenly satirical—from Gordon's own hand. The book will contain a fine portrait of Gordon, and maps, and will, from its intrinsic character and the unique character of Gordon, command general attention. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. bring out this week the first four volumes of the eight comprising Middleton's Works, in the series of Elizabethan Dramatists, and Dr. Holmes's famous novel, "Elsie Venner," in the Riverside Paper Series, which has already won a great success. The next issue will be Miss Sprague's popular story, "An Earnest Trifler."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MR. LOWELL, it is reported, will immediately begin work upon his "Hawthorne."

JAMES PAYN has finished a new novel, entitled "The Luck o' the Darrells," which will be issued shortly by Messrs. Longmans.

MISS BRADDON has a new tale ready for issue, entitled "Cut by the County," which will appear serially in different English newspapers.

MR. SWINBURNE is engaged on an essay called "The Work of Victor Hugo," which will appear in the Nineteenth Century for July. Mr. Swinburne will criticise one by one each of M. Hugo's books.

MICHAEL FIELD, the author of "Callirhöe" and "Fair Rosamund," has a new volume ready for publication, which will contain three dramatic poems—"The Father's Tragedy," "William Rufus," and "Loyalty and Love."

Christ in the Gospels; or, a life of our Lord, composed of every statement of Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John, in exactly the words of the American revision of 1881, and so arranged as to indicate clearly from which evangelist each expression is taken; with self-interpreting scripture and maps showing Christ's journeys; critical notes, with an introduction by P. S. Henson, D. D. Chic., The American Pub. Soc. of Hebrew, 1885. 382 p. D. cl. subs., $1.50; $2.

Cottin, Mme. Sophie R. Matilda, Princess of England: a romance of the Crusades; from the French by Jennie W. Raum; ed. by G: E. Raum. N. Y., W: S. Gottsberger, 1885. 2 v. 2+317; 2+317 p. S. cl., $1.75; pap., $1.

The famous author of "Elizabeth, or, the exiles of Siberia," has constructed a charming romance of the time of Richard I. of England, in which his sister, the Princess Matilda, takes a leading part. Matilda leaves her convent to accompany her brother and his bride on a pilgrimage to the Holy Land; the ladies and their suite are taken prisoners by the Saracen Malek Adhel, a man of many noble and winning qualities, although a Mussulman. Matilda's beauty takes his heart by storm, and he henceforth resorts to every strategy to win her. The story is a succession of romantic adventures and dashing encounters between the Crusaders and the Mohammedans, through which runs the love tale of Matilda and Malek Adhel. While it gives an excellent historical picture of the period, it has all the charm of imaginative literature in its well-conceived plot and attractive style.

Ewing, Juliana Horatio. The story of a short life; il. by Gordon Browne. N. Y., E. & J. B. Young, [1885.] 2-82 p. O. bds., 30 c.

An exquisite pen picture, in which the characters all possess distinct individuality. Leonard's parents, his nurse Jemima, his friends the soldiers at Camp Asholt, and last but not least his faithful dog Sweep, all fit in their especial niches in the beautiful, brief life into which our child-hero was eager to crowd so much, trying so bravely to follow out his motto, Lætus sorte mea, "happy in my lot." The illustrations by Gordon Browne represent different episodes, both quaint and pathetic, in the life of our young hero.

Hare, A: J. C. Studies in Russia. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, [1885.] 8+403 p. il. D. cl., $2.

This is no made-up guide-book to meet the new interest that has sprung up in all things Russian. Mr. Hare's work is the result of a summer's travel in the land of the Tsars, during which he used thoroughly his keen powers of observation and his highly cultivated intelligence. He has produced a work that will take rank with his "Walks in Rome" in permanent value and interest. It omits nothing that the reader or traveller would know of Russia. The government, history, public buildings, prominent men, customs, scenery, etc. are all described minutely, and with many fresh and amusing anecdotes. While the book was written principally for travellers, it will be found most readable for the unfortunate stay-at-homes, in search both of knowledge and entertainment.

Hare, A: J. C. Wanderings in Spain. N. Y., G: Routledge & Sons, [1885.] 16+182 p. il. S. cl., $1.25.

The same literary interest that pertains to "Russia" is one of the attractions of this volume. It describes the author's tour in Spain in 1871 and '72, and while not neglecting the larger towns, gives information about obscure villages and out-of-the way points of interest often neglected by the hurried traveller. Mr. Hare "roughed it" in Spain, seeking to know the Spanish people and Spanish life in their most unconventional aspects. His experience offers some delightful sketches of character and art, of the kindly hospitality and the rich legendary lore of this romantic country.

Hatton, Jos. John Needham's double: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1885. 3-146 p. S. (Harper's handy ser., no. 9.) pap., 25 c.

The story of a murder, ingeniously planned and carried out. John Needham, M. P., being on the brink of ruin, through forgeries and other crimes he has committed, and about to commit suicide, meets with Joseph Norbury, who looks enough like him to be his twin brother. To murder him and substitute himself in his place, is the work of a few hours. His detection, through the suspicions of Kate Norbury, Joseph's sister, is well told.

Jamieson, Rob., D.D., Fausset, Rev. A. R., and Brown, D:, D.D. Bible commentary: critical, explanatory, and practical on the Old and New Testaments. Toledo, O., Jerome B. Names & Co., 1884. 4 v. D. cl., subs., $8; hf. mor., $10; leath., $11.

King, Frankie Faling. Mark Maynard's wife. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1885.] 17-294 p. S. pap., 75 c.

An American novel; the scene is laid mainly at Valley Farm and in Chicago. Candice, the heroine, while very young, marries Mark Maynard. She is a poor relative of his, living with his stern, proud mother. Mark is indolent, and dreads making his marriage known to his mother, so Candice lives on unacknowledged. Finally she believes her husband in love with Alda Lorne, an heiress, but a victim of consumption, and flees from him. The trials and troubles of the parted pair are well depicted. The character sketching is quite clever.

Macy, Jesse. A government text-book for Iowa schools. Grinnell, Iowa, S. A. Cravath, 1885. 87 p. S. pap., 30 c.

Meyer, H: C. Water-waste prevention: its importance and the evils due to its neglect; with an account of the methods adopted in various cities in Great Britain and the United States. N. Y., Office of The Sanitary Engineer, 1885. 2-70 p. O. cl., $1.

During the summer of 1882 the editor of the Sanitary Engineer carefully investigated the methods employed in various cities in Great Britain for curtailing the waste of water without subjecting the respective communities to either inconvenience or a limited allowance. The results of this investigation appeared in a series of articles entitled "New York's water-supply." Numerous requests for information, growing out of the recent proposition to increase the powers of the Water Department of New York City, with a view to enabling it to restrict the waste of water, have suggested the desirability of reprinting these articles in a more convenient and accessible form, with data giving the results of efforts in this direction in American cities since the articles first appeared.

Neidé, C: A., M. D. The canoe Aurora: a cruise from the Adirondacks to the Gulf. N. Y., Forest and Stream Pub. Co., 1885. 215 p. D. cl, $1.

Norris, W. E. Adrian Vidal: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1885. 77 p. il. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., no. 475.) pap., 25 c.

Adrian Vidal is a popular novelist: he marries for love, but after a short dream of happiness, his wife develops a jealous temper, which extends to his literary and social successes, and even to his work. The story of his married life includes something of journalism.

Olcott, H: S. A Buddhist catechism, according to the canon of the Southern church. 1st Amer., from the Sinhalese 14th thousand, ed. with notes by Elliott Coues. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, 1885. 8+84 p. sq. T. (The Biogen ser., no. 2.) parchment pap., 75 c.

Contains, in the form of questions and answers, the leading facts in the life of Gautama Buddha and the essential features of his doctrine.

Omar Khayyám. Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám, the astronomer-poet of Persia; rendered into English verse by E: Fitzgerald. N. Y., The Grolier Club, 1885. 18+62 p. O. pap., subs., $3.

A limited edition of this celebrated poem has just been issued by the Grolier club of New York. It consists of 150 copies on Japan paper and two copies on vellum, printed from type. It is reprinted from the edition of Bernard Quaritch, London, 1879, and is a beautiful specimen of bookmaking. The type is large and clear—but two stanzas occupying a page—and the margins extremely generous. Each division of the poem has an ornamental heading—an arabesque design printed in colors. The title-page shows the seal of the Grolier Club, in red, blue, green, and gold, while the paper cover is a rich combination of blues, white, and gold, on a pale blue background, the design of the latter being conventionalized flowers and foliage.

Palmer, Julius A., jr., ed. Mushrooms of America, edible and poisonous. Bost., L. Prang & Co., 1885. 4 p. 12 pl. Q., in portfolio, cl., $2.

The twelve plates show as many varieties of mushrooms, very finely colored; each chart embraces a description of the special variety and the best method of of preparing it for the table. The illustrations and descriptions are so explicit that any one can quickly learn from them which are the edible and which the poisonous varieties of this delicious and much neglected food. The 4 pages of text offer some interesting general directions.

Weidner, Revere Franklin. Theological encyclopædia and methodology: based on Hagenbach and Krauth. Pt. 1, Introduction and exegetical theology. Phil., H. B. Garner, 1885. 7+183 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Prof. Weidner states that this book was prepared to meet the wants of theological students, and is published chiefly to use as a text-book in the classes of the Augustana Theological Seminary instead of delivering oral lectures. It aims to present a summary view of what is embraced in theological knowledge. Its design is not so much to teach theology as to show where theology is taught. The author "has tried to avoid, on the one hand, a minuteness which impairs unity, and, on the other, a condensation which runs into obscurity and dryness." The bibliographies which accompany every division of the subject are complete and valuable.

BUSINESS NOTES.

FARIBAULT, MINN.—Wilson & Smith, booksellers and stationers, have dissolved partnership. Mr. Smith will continue the business.

LEAVENWORTH, KAN.—J. F. Brink, bookseller, has sold out to A. Hunnins.

MUSKEGON, MICH.—W. W. Owen, bookseller and stationer, has sold out.

RIPLEY, OHIO.—J. F. Frederick, bookseller, has sold out to Mrs. R. Frederick.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Leopold Gast, for forty years engaged in the publication of Lutheran books, blank certificates of various kinds, etc., has transferred his business to the Luth. Concordia Verlag (W. C. Barthel, agent), who will hereafter supply the trade. Mr. Gast, having reached his seventy-fifth year, retires from business.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE July Magazine of American History opens a new volume, and also its promised Civil War Papers. Its frontispiece is a portrait of President Lincoln.

MISS ROSE G. KINGSLEY, a daughter of Charles Kingsley, contributes the article on "George Eliot's County." Warwickshire, to the July Century. George Bancroft has written for the same number a brief paper on Henry Clay, with anecdotes of Clay and Calhoun.

IN the July Wide Awake is begun a serial for business boys, entitled "How the Middies Set up Shop," by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, and one for business girls, entitled "A New Departure," by Margaret Sidney. Both Rose Kingsley and Mrs. Margaret J. Preston have contributions in the same issue relative to the famous old Kenilworth Castle.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

CHARLES L. WOODWARD, 78 Nassau St., N. Y., has issued another one of his characteristic "Catalogue of Books and Pamphlets relating to America." It is dated June, 1885, and numbered 39. (36 p. O.)

DR. JOSEPH A. NOLAN, of New York, has made an exhaustive catalogue of the library of the late Mr. King, of Newport, which is particularly rich in prints and in books relating to art. The catalogue is in two parts, but is not for sale.

THE Library (of Cornell University) for May contains a list comprising the books on Russian history, folk-lore, etc., recently presented to Cornell University Library by the Hon. Eugene Schuyler. The titles have been arranged under a few general headings indicating the character and distinctive features of the collection.

ROBERTS BROTHERS, 3 Somerset Street, Boston, have issued an excellent descriptive catalogue of their publications. The catalogue is alphabetical, by authors' names and by titles of books published anonymously, each title being accompanied by a descriptive note by some acknowledged authority. A very full classified index is also given. (126 p. S.)

NOTES AND QUERIES.

AUTHORS' INCOMES.

WE have had occasion more than once, in the course of the copyright question, to point out that the interests of authors and publishers are in large measure identical, and there is no better proof of this fact than the result of the present demoralization of the book trade upon authors' incomes. The successful men of to-day are those who look to the magazines, rather than to the publishers of books as such, for the greater part of their income, and if it were not for the first use of novels, short stories, and miscellaneous papers by the magazines, the American author would have a poor chance indeed of earning his livelihood. The records of the trade show that a generation or so ago, when the reading public of England was very much smaller than to-day, and when almost nothing was known of the enormous reading public which America boasts, both English publishers, and such American publishers as there were, paid to authors considerable outright sums much above, we are inclined to think, those which almost any author could get to-day. We intend some day to collate the actual facts in this matter, so as to discuss the subject more intelligently and thoroughly ; but such facts as are at hand confirm this general view.

In these days the American author finds two difficulties before him. Cheap reprints make people most unwilling to pay an American author his share on a dollar book when they can get a cheap reprint, which pays no author anything, for fifteen or twenty cents. Secondly, the demoralization of the book-trade through the cheap reprints and through the system of discounts and underselling is such that there are now few real booksellers to present the works of live authors, especially new authors, to the little knots of customers here and there upon whom the publisher must, after all, rely for a great part of his sales. For this reason authors who have sufficient reputation to attract subscription publishers are apt to resort to the device of subscription publishing, where sales depend less upon the character of a book than upon the glibness of the agent's tongue. This is all bad for American literature and for American authors, and the two movements for a better system of domestic bookselling and for the promotion of international copyright are equally, therefore, in the interest of the American book-trade and of American authors.

MIXED BOOKSELLING.

THE following advertisement of a dry-goods shop, from a paper at Los Angeles, Cal., is an example of the saddest fate the much-abused poets have yet encountered. They must be turning over in their graves :

The greatest triumph in modern merchandising is the placing on our counters of 1000 volumes of the Red Line edition of the Poets. They are handsomely bound in cloth, bevel boards, gold edges, profusely illustrated, and printed on the finest quality of paper. These books are sold all over the city for $1.25, and no one sells them for less. Over fifty authors' works will be found in this collection, and we will sell the choice next Saturday for 25 cents each.

Also 1000 volumes of standard novels, printed on extra heavy paper, bound in cloth, and books that sell everywhere for $1 per volume. Our price for next Saturday, 10 cents. These books are now on exhibition in our muslin underwear department, and the public is cordially invited to call and see them. These books are sold in connection with other goods.

All day Saturday we will sell 4-button gloves at $1, 5-hooks at $1.25, 7-hooks at $1.50, and 10-hooks at $2, and by paying 25 cents extra you may select any book in the collection.

By purchasing 6 pairs Lisle thread hose at 49 cents per pair, you may, by paying 10 cents extra, have the choice out of our entire stock of novels, or by paying 25 cents, the choice out of the poetical works.

Between 10 and 12 we will sell ten yards of our Caliope brand of bleached muslin for $1, and by paying 10 cents you may have the choice of novels, or 25 cents extra the choice of the poetical works. If our prints arrive in time, and we think they will, we will give one of the biggest and most progressive sales of prints ever known. They are now on the way, and we surely expect them.

All day Saturday we will sell all 40, 35, and 33 cent towel for 25 cents.

To-morrow we will tell you all about our table linen sale for Saturday, and also our dress goods sale. We intend, Saturday, to wake them all up. We intend the crowd shall come. They will be out in full force. To any one purchasing one of these books at 10 cents or 25 cents, if before leaving the store they wish goods for it out of any department in the house we will allow three times the purchase price for the book.

We will also place on sale 1000 Oriental lace collars at 49 cents each, and to every purchaser of two of these collars we will sell for 10 cents additional a handsome work-box worth $1.

If you can't come, send your regrets or some one to represent you by proxy.

THE BOSTON PUBLISHERS.

BY REV. J. H. WARD.

From the Boston Herald, June 14.

THE development of the publishing business in this city and Cambridge during the last fifty years is almost identical with the growth of what is distinctive and choice in American literature, and the fame and success of the publishers have been closely connected with those of the authors whose works they have published. Half a century ago the books that really belonged to literature had the imprint of James Munroe & Co., who published Emerson's "Nature" in 1835, and a little later his "Essays," and who republished, at his suggestion, the "Essays" of Carlyle, and also his "French Revolution." It was this house that brought out Hudson's "Shakespeare" and the "Twice-Told Tales" of Hawthorne. The house of Allen & Ticknor began as early as 1833, but was not known much in the flush days of transcendentalism. Ripley's "Foreign Literature" bore the imprint of James Munroe & Co., and a partner of this house, Rev., afterward Mr., John Owen, was Lowell's and Longfellow's first publisher. He brought out Lowell's tiny volume of poems, and his "Conversations on the Poets," but James Munroe & Co. published the "Vision of Sir Launfal." Mr. Owen was Longfellow's intimate friend, and their deaths were not far apart. Little, Brown & Co. began to come into notice shortly after 1840, as the publishers of Bancroft's "United States," and dared to give their imprints to Theodore Parker's books when nobody else would touch them. They also entered upon political works, like those of Webster, Everett, Winthrop, and Choate, as Gould & Lincoln did upon theology of the orthodox type, and as Crocker & Brewster embarked in books for the million.

The day of an American literature, up to 1850, had, however, hardly arrived. Emerson and Longfellow, as well as Holmes, and Whittier, and Hawthorne, had not yet become widely known; Phillips, Sampson & Co. had not yet started the Atlantic; Putnam's Magazine, in its pea-green covers, was our best literary organ, outside of the North American Review, and the day of large publishing interests had not come. In that earlier time Mr. James Brown was the great promoter of larger ideas among the bookmakers. He had an unusual knowledge of books, and imported the leading English literature of the day. Some of our older literary men confess that they could never resist the charm with which he invested the books he had for sale. The house with which he was identified has always had much to do in publishing books that have a permanent place in our literature, but since 1850 this has been shared and more largely possessed by the house of W. D. Ticknor & Co., which has led the hosts in the publication of American belles-lettres, and in the reproduction of what is choicest in English contemporary literature. Little, Brown & Co. have always maintained, and never more so than now, the foreign book trade, and have thus largely stimulated the literary life of the community, but the house known as Ticknor & Co., with which the brown-covered books were specially associated, was the first to make a distinct impression by gathering to itself leading American authors. It was a great gain for this house when the misfortunes of John Owen led to the transfer of Lowell's and Longfellow's writings from Cambridge to Boston. Presently Dr. Holmes joined hands with them; then Hawthorne was added, and the rising fame of Lord Tennyson gave them the lead of the country in the matter of English reprints. This house also owed much to the literary instincts of James T. Fields, who knew how to cultivate the friendship of authors, and what books to republish from the English lists, and how to place the publishing interests in a favorable light before the people. Some of the sunniest days our literature has known came when Ticknor & Fields held the fort for perhaps twenty years, and built up a catalogue of authors and reprints which hold as choice a place in our book lists as the famous Moxon or Pickering houses hold in the lists of English authorship. Those were halcyon days. Phillips, Sampson & Co. had Emerson, and Prescott, and the Atlantic; Little, Brown & Co. had Webster, and Bancroft, and Parkman; Ticknor & Co. had the poets, the romancers, the novelists, and the essayists, and Lee & Shepard were publishing what came within their reach. Americans then imagined that our native authors were the equals of English, French, and German writers, and, without being aware of our provincial position, we believed in ourselves and ignored the rest of the world. The doctrine of evolution has changed all this; at least, men have lost confidence in themselves, and do not think so much of our literature as they did before it had been compared with the best that this age has produced. The survival of the fittest is now the rule, and the book market has the free competition of the world. No book that is really important is out of reach, and the ends of the earth are ransacked for the materials for new productions. This has helped to widen the resources of the publishers at the same time that it has modified their position.

Changes in the book trade have placed two men, who followed one another as clerks in the house of Ticknor & Co., in the foremost positions as publishers. Thomas Niles stepped out of the "old corner" one day and organized the publishing house of Roberts Brothers. James R. Osgood succeeded him at the "old corner," and succeeded to the title of the house, where he began at the small rungs of the ladder. His withdrawal from the house with which he has been identified in one way or another takes from the Boston book trade one of its most energetic men, but does not change the conviction that Boston is still the publishing centre for our choicest literature. The house of Houghton, Mifflin & Co. has practically succeeded to the traditions of New England authorship, while that of Roberts Brothers divides with it the possession of a large part of the best contemporary literature. Lee & Shepard and D. Lothrop & Co. are each doing good work in their own sphere, but one house has lost something of its old strength, and the other is winning its way to a higher position. Two other houses, Estes & Lauriat, and Cupples, Upham & Co., have a distinct place and work in the publication of books. The one deserves special mention for its immense facilities in the distribution of literature, and the other for the encouragement extended to unfledged authors. But, while changes have come in the names and membership of different houses, the traditions of the New England authorship and the high and sterling character of our Boston publishers are still vigorously maintained. If the trade is more cosmopolitan than it used to be, it has lost nothing of its care to publish only good books. There is a Boston standard that still rules among American publishers, and authors still look to Boston publishers for the ushering of their choice offspring into the world. The record of the past fifty years has been, on the whole, one of steady growth, of honorable dealings, and of high moral standards. The making of books has been identified with the promotion of the intellectual and ethical improvement of the entire community. No Boston publisher has knowingly put his name upon the title-page of an immoral work, and authors have accepted their courtesies as the proper standard for the publishing interests of the continent.

OBITUARY.

CYRUS H. LOUTREL, the surviving partner of the old stationery house of Francis & Loutrel, died at his house in East Orange, N. J., on Tuesday, June 16, in the sixty-fourth year of his age. Mr. Loutrel was a native of New York City, although his father was by birth a Frenchman. In 1835 the deceased started a stationery business in Pine St., his associate in the venture being Peter Mesier. In 1844 he entered into partnership with Lewis Francis, and the then new firm of Francis & Loutrel opened a manufacturing establishment at 77 Maiden Lane. After ten years' occupancy the firm found its quarters too limited for the growing business, and removed to 45 Maiden Lane, where the business has since been carried on. In August, 1877, Mr. Francis died, and his interest in the business was purchased by Mr. Loutrel, who some time ago admitted his son into partnership with him.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A. WALDTEUFEL, San Francisco, Cal., has in preparation an elementary work on algebra and geometry by the Rev. Joseph Bayma, S. J., Professor of Philosophy, Stonyhurst College, Eng., author of "Molecular Mechanics," etc.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish a limited edition of five hundred copies of President Noah Porter's discourse on Bishop George Berkeley, recently delivered at Yale College. It is printed on hand-made Holland paper, and has an artotype of the picture of the Bishop and his family preserved at the college, whose benefactor he was.

E. B. TREAT has in preparation "The Life and Times of Ulysses S. Grant, Comprising his Early Training, Military Career, Presidential Administrations, Travels round the World, Private Life, and Sufferings," by Hon. J. T. Headley, author of "Washington and His Generals," etc. The work will make a large octavo volume, fully illustrated, and will be sold by subscription.

J. S. OGILVIE & CO. have issued No. 19 of Ogilvie's Popular Reading, containing the following six stories: "A Flaw in the Marriage Chain," by Emma S. Southworth; "The Three Cousins," by May Agnes Fleming; "One Summer Month;" "The Two Plumplington Heroines," by Anthony Trollope; "Light in Darkness, and Other Sketches," by Miss Mulock, and "Diary of a Minister's Wife," by A. M. Brown. (Price, 30 cents.)

D. LOTHROP & CO. have in preparation a volume by Rose Kingsley, entitled "The Children of Westminster Abbey," which is to have a number of original illustrations, and reproductions of rare engravings. Among other fine books to be published by this house for the fall and holiday season, we notice "Heroines of the Poets," "Stabat Mater," and "The Old Armchair," with illustrations specially designed by Lungren, Hassam, Miss Humphrey, and others.

R. WORTHINGTON claims to have in preparation the handsomest line of juveniles he has ever published. He will soon have ready his samples to show the trade. Among the more advanced is a new book by Mary A. Lathbury, author of "Seven Little Maids," one of the prettiest books issued last year. It is entitled "Ring a-Rosy," and is brimful of charming child figures printed in colors. It will be double the size of her previous volume. The price has been fixed at $2.

WRITING in the Critic on the making of pretty books, Mr. "Arthur Penn" says: "The danger lies in the possibility that the publisher may be tempted to confine his attention to the mere make-up of a book, to the choice of type, paper, size, to the neatness of the printing, and to the elegant simplicity of the binding, to the neglect of another essential more precious than these—to the omission, that is, of the editorial helps and auxiliaries which the best book needs. We have seen marked instances of this neglect of late both here and in England."

MAPPING THE UNITED STATES.—With the present organization of the United States Geological Survey, according to Mr. J. W. Powell, its map of the United States will be completed in about twenty-four years, about one fifth of the country, exclusive of Alaska, having thus far been mapped. Where the topography and geology are simple, as in the prairies and great plains, the sheets of this map are made on a scale 1-250,000, or about four miles to the inch; further West, where both structure and topography are more complex, special districts are made to twice this scale, and important mining districts are drawn much larger, while in the East the more thinly settled sections are given a scale of 1-125,000, and the more densely populated portions one of 1-62 500, or about one mile to the inch.

CASSELL & COMPANY will publish shortly a new book by Arminius Vámbéry on "England and Russia in Central Asia."

CHAPMAN & HALL will publish at once a volume to be called "The Purpose of Theosophy," by Mrs. Sinnett, which is designed to explain, in a simple and popular way, the nature of the movement.

MR. ARROWSMITH, Bristol, England, has in hand for publication a work on America à la Max O'Rell. It is to be called "Jonathan's Home," and is by "Allen-a-Dale," announced to be a gentleman on the editorial staff of the New York Times. Mr. Arrowsmith also intends issuing a memoir of "Hugh Conway," founded on his personal recollections and on Mr. Fargus's own letters. Mr. Arrowsmith, it will be remembered, was the first publisher of "Called Back."

MR. RENDLE, of Southwark, writes to the London Athenæum to say that he believes he is in possession of the whole story of John Harvard, founder of the college which has now become Harvard University. Mr. Rendle has discovered the date of John Harvard's birth, his parentage, the house in which the family continuously lived for twenty-eight years, and traced the break-up of the family in the great plague of 1625, which destroyed a quarter of the inhabitants of St. Saviour's, the parish in which the family had lived. Mr. Rendle hopes that he may complete his narrative and produce it shortly.

For 1885 [Sixteenth Year].

The Educational Catalogue has been found so valuable to the Trade, not only as a finding list, but for circulation among educational customers, for the purpose of soliciting orders and saving at the same time much troublesome correspondence, that its permanent continuance is recognized as a necessity.

The catalogue this year follows the alphabetical system pronounced by the experience of the trade the most satisfactory for practical use. It includes a price-list arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject, so that the advantages of both a finding list for the trade and a class catalogue for the use of schools are combined. No other list in the market gives this practical combination.

The list has been entirely reset, to include the new books in their proper alphabetical order, and also to embody all the corrections of prices, omissions, or other errors in last year's catalogue.

Publishers' prices are in all cases given—retail, if retail (in first column); "net," if "net" (in second column); where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk. A carefully drawn explanation in the heading, to private buyers, adapts the catalogue to the use of the retail trade.

It should be understood that, of the regular retail-price publishers, only the retail price is given, and the net prices only of those publishers who make it a practice to mail net-price lists to schools—in fact, make their net prices their regular school-supply prices. This point is emphasized in order to meet the objections raised to the quotation of net prices.

It should be well considered that any attempt at withholding, from the educational public, what the publisher, through his agents, advertisements, lists, and circulars, takes special pains to make known, must be an unwise policy. It is not objectionable, but quite proper and legitimate, to charge the retail or mailing price for single copies of any book; but the Educational Catalogue is not generally given away to single-book customers. It is intended only for those who purchase for schools in quantities. Now any one putting himself on record by quoting fictitious prices, or prices other than those quoted by the publisher (which prices, it is now understood, are generally still subject to a trade discount), necessarily must drive his school trade into the hands of those who solicit their orders from a catalogue, the prices of which tally with that of the publishers.

The following paragraph from a previous year's Educational Catalogue further elucidates the reasons for our strict adherence to publishers' prices: "Plainly, if it wished to sustain its official character, it was bound to respect the desire of those who have a right to stand by their prices, and who, should their established prices be disregarded, could by their public protest soon discredit the Educational Catalogue as well as those who handled it for circulation. At a time when the public mind, from causes so often discussed and lamented in these columns, is fast losing faith in honest prices, so far as books are concerned, it is of the utmost importance that there be one official list which can be consulted with confidence by the public, as well as by the trade.

In making up special orders for the Educational Catalogue, booksellers should bear in mind that it possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5; per 1000, $40.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5, or $1 if plate is sent.

 Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 25 cents per copy, or five for $1, postpaid.

1876-1884.

The new AMERICAN CATALOGUE, supplementing the great work of the late Frederick Leypoldt, includes titles of about 20,000 books, recorded as issued between July 1, 1876, and June 30, 1884. It can be bound as one volume or in two, duplicate title-pages being supplied. It comprises:

1. List of American publishers, with addresses;
2. Author and Title Alphabet, 1876–1884;
3. Subject Alphabet, 1876–1884;
4. List of Government Publications, from the completion of the Government List to June 30, 1884;
5. List of American Publishing Societies and their regular issues;
6. List of Libraries, Series, Collections, etc.;
7. Omissions from Cheap Libraries.

—making the most complete working bibliography yet issued in any country. The edition, from type, is limited to 1250 copies, of which about 800 are already absorbed. The price is $12.50 in paper parts, $15 one volume (742 pages, 4to), half morocco. This makes it the cheapest catalogue of its kind ever issued.

About 30 copies only remain of the original AMERICAN CATALOGUE of 1876 (2 vols., over 1400 pages), and librarians or other book-people not owning copies should secure them at once. The price is now $40 paper, $44, 2 vols., half morocco. It will soon be raised to $50, paper.

Five-yearly supplements hereafter will enhance the value of the original work and of the first supplement. Every owner of a private library and book-collector, as well as every bookseller and librarian, should have this invaluable key to American books.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LIBRARY

BY A. E. DUNNING,

SUNDAY-SCHOOL SECRETARY.

16mo, cloth. Price (retail), 60 cents.

This book is so excellent a guide for the organization and management of Sunday-school libraries, that the OFFICE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, desirous to place it on its own list of practical aids for booksellers, librarians, and bookbuyers—with a view to serving its constituency—has made arrangements with the Congregational Sunday-School and Publishing Society, which will enable this Office to supply the book at uniform rates to the trade.

Every bookseller who deals in books for the young should have a copy in his own reference library; but it is a book that will be specially welcome to Book Committees, Sunday-school Superintendents and Teachers, Clergymen, Parents, etc. It is a work that cannot fail to aid and encourage an intelligent purchase of books.

From the Boston Advertiser.

"What the Rev. A. E. Dunning does not know about Sunday-school libraries is hardly worth knowing. His book is the fruit of practical experience, and answers hundreds of questions which are asked by those in charge of Sunday-schools, as to the selection of books, their use, their distribution, their relation to the proper work of the school. . . . Mr. Dunning has written a concise, pithy, sensible book. His points are good and are well stated."

From the Congregationalist.

"Secretary Dunning has written a capital book suggested by many inquiries which have been made of him It treats of the history, object, authorship, selection, use, distribution, and power of the library. It is exceedingly practical and sensible, is written with unusual vigor, is thoroughly interesting, is unsectarian, and has, in an apdendix, a list of works suitable for a library. The portion of it which deals with the selection of books is specially valuable, and the volume only needs to become known to gain a large sale among all denominations."

From the Sunday-School Times.

"The book contains a brief history of the origin and development of the Sunday-school library; chapters on its sphere of usefulness and its power; and plans, briefly stated, of selecting books, distributing them, and making them work. There is also a special chapter giving hints for those who would write Sunday-school books. Mr. Dunning is not one who believes in general lists of Sunday-school books, selected for the use of all schools, and without reference to the special needs of any; but for the benefit of those who wish a suggestive list, he adds a topical catalogue of books, in which each work mentioned is classified under a general head, and its special contents and characteristics are briefly indicated in a note. A basis is thus provided for intelligent choice on the part of librarians and committees."

BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG.

A GUIDE FOR PARENTS AND CHILDREN. Second Edition, with Revisions to Date. Compiled by Miss C. M. HEWINS, Librarian of the Hartford Library Association.

"Meets most admirably the demand for carefully selected lists, and contains valuable and interesting counsel."—W. E. FOSTER.

"By far the best catalogue of books of this kind that has ever appeared."—S. S. GREEN.

"Deserves more extended praise than we have space for. It will bring joy to the hearts of hundreds of parents."—Nation.

"For them (the parents), as well as for librarians and teachers, the book will serve an excellent purpose, for it is by far the best guide that has been printed, and there is nothing in it that is not of excellent and interesting quality."—Boston Transcript.

"A little manual long needed. A classified list of good books is given, with indications as to age and sex to which they are best suited. The list is prefaced by hints as to how children should be taught the right use of books, a note on good reading in English and American history for children, and a 'symposium' on children's books, containing interesting extracts from many sources. Miss Hewins may safely be accepted as an authority and guide by parents and buyers of children's books."—Good Literature.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, NEW YORK.

Messrs. HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co.

Take pleasure in announcing to the Trade that they have purchased from MESSRS. KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH & CO., of London, advance sheets of

General Gordon's Journals at Kartoum,

And that they will publish the work Tuesday, June 30. It will contain, in addition to Gordon's Journals, an Introductory Narrative of events; a number of Notes by Mr. A. EGMONT HAKE, cousin of General Gordon, and author of a biography of him; and several Appendices, including Letters to General Gordon from the Mahdi, and other documents of great interest.

It will be illustrated with a Portrait of General Gordon, Maps, and a number of Diagrams from General Gordon's Sketches.

The remarkable character of General Gordon and of his mission to Kartoum, and the intense interest felt throughout the civilized world in his enterprise and his fate, cannot fail to secure instant and eager attention to his Journals from a multitude of readers.

In one volume, crown, 8vo, $2.00.

THEY PUBLISH SATURDAY JUNE 27:

The Works of Thomas Middleton.

Edited by A. H. BULLEN, B. A. In eight volumes, 8vo. First Four Volumes now ready. The set (4 vols.), cloth, $12; large-paper edition, $16 net.

N. B. The discount on the large-paper edition is special.

The first four volumes of the Works of Middleton here announced, continue the issue of The English Dramatists begun by the publication of Marlowe's Works some months ago. They are brought out under the same very competent editorial supervision, and in the same desirable style. The Edinburgh Scotsman pronounces Mr. Bullen "a competent editor in every respect," and the Pall Mall Gazette, in noticing the Marlowe, remarked, "If the series is continued as it is begun, by one of the most careful editors, this set of the English Dramatists will be a coveted literary possession."

Elsie Venner.

By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. Fourth Volume in the Riverside Paper Series. Paper, 50 cents.

It excites, it fascinates, it chains down the attention, and all with a certain weird power like that described in its heroine. —London Literary Gazette.

READY JULY 4:

An Earnest Trifler.

The famous novel by MARY A. SPRAGUE. Fifth Volume in the Riverside Paper Series. Paper, 50 cents.
